BUNDY RANCH BUNKERVILLE, NEVADA

Read by Ammon Bundy at the Clark County Sheriff Precinct

As we have had the opportunity to reflect on the events that took place between March 26th and April 12th, 2014-we have experienced feelings of concern, confusion, fear, anger, sadness and joy.

Our peaceful community has been shaken. In many ways, we are still processing the magnitude of what took place. We ask ourselves so many questions; did the federal government really come into this valley and terrorize our community?

Did hundreds of armed forces, in Red Dawn fashion, lock down the hills and valleys of our peaceful home-threatening at gunpoint, anyone who stepped off the paved road, with forceful and lethal action?

Did we really see armed forces convoying through the streets of our town, diligently recording names and identities of anyone who glanced wrong or opposed them in any way?

Was there really heavy equipment in the form of dump trucks and backhoes, on our mountains, tearing up infrastructure that we have used for hundreds of years, and is vital to our survival? Were we truly in the cross-hairs of snipers, and under surveillance by the latest in technological weapons?

Did these forces actually point their rifles in the faces of our little children, while beating their unarmed fathers to the dirt and hauling them off in chains?

Did they really body-slam our friend, a 59 year old woman to the ground, and sic German Shepherds on our neighbors-even a pregnant woman?

Did they actually shock a man multiple times with a 50,000 volt Taser for honorably protecting his aunt, while she gathered herself out of the dust?

We reflect in sadness and awe that this could take place in our little town. The terror of armed men occupying our land will never be forgotten. The feelings of despair of these events will long reside in our hearts. Thoughts of anxiousness that this may ever happen again, will awaken us from our pillows from time to time.

During quiet reflection, we may ask ourselves if we did the right thing by resisting. Were we in the right when we acted to safeguard ourselves? When the only response to our multiple pleas for help was silence, when we were left alone to clean our cuts and wounds, did we have a divine right, duty, and obligation to protect our family and ourselves?

We recall the many times we pleaded with our local government to protect us; the numerous times we called 911, and begged our Sheriff to send his deputies to assist. Our cries of distress were met with silence. We ask ourselves, "Did we try hard enough to get our local government and law enforcement to act as a buffer and perform their duty to protect and serve?"

Were the hundreds of phone calls not enough, or is it just that our elected leaders and Sheriff have forsaken the people in trade for power and money? We whole-heartedly want to believe that our Sheriff would not abandon us, but where has his shielding influence been?

Why was he not here to represent and protect the very men, women and children of his county that he swore an oath for? Why did he stand silent and neutral, knowing our community was in terror? What was his motivation of inaction; was it fear of the federal government or political reprisal from powerful politicians?

The scars of this traumatic event will heal over time. We hope our community will eventually return to a sense of normalcy. We fervently hope and pray that these heavy-handed tactics will not be used on us or any other American ever again. We wonder if our hopes will be in vain; will they return?

Will they come back with greater force and more cunning tactics than before? Will our Sheriff keep his oath this time, and use his lawful forces to stop them, or will the people be left to their own protection? Will the good people of this nation yet again have to come running to the rescue of a neighbor?

Will veterans, retired police force, churches, businesses, families and individuals have to unite once again to confront these acts of governmental terror upon the American people?

Will our local government rouse themselves from disaffection and intervene-protecting the people? Will they stop fearing to do the right thing and come to the realization that the people are more important than a government agency? Will they fight for the rights of the state and her people?

They must stop putting personal gain and advancement in front of the rights of citizens.

They need to recognize, that as our elected representatives, they have more power than those governing in brute force, as they have the might of the people of this state backing them. With that power we invest in them, they have the obligation to safeguard our livelihoods, combat forces of fear, and protect our lives with their own.

A few weeks ago, our community was in a state of innocence and naivety. We felt safe and mostly kept to ourselves. We thought the world's problems would only affect us through television, and could be shut off with the push of a button.

Our innocence has left us now; we have experienced first-hand the breath of force upon our necks. We have gasped in desperation as our lives and agencies were threatened. Our cries have been ignored by our guardians in the next room.

We faced a choice-either lie down and submit helplessly in defeat, or bite, scratch, and fight until help would come. We are eternally and profoundly grateful for the many heroic neighbors who heard our desperate cries and crashed through the windows to rescue.

We additionally thank the thousands that came from every States in this great nation, and stood in front of raised guns in our defense, and for the hope that those same guns would never come to their doors and their families.

We are grateful for those that arrived with pen and camera, those that arrived with faith and prayers, and those that arrived with fist and gun. The variety of support from all walks of life has shown that this was an event that truly touched the good hearts of many Americans.

We cannot thank you all enough-you have restored our faith in the goodness of the American people. Our message to all, is that it is time to make things right. It is time to adhere to the supreme law of the land-The Constitution of the United States.

It is time to understand right, stand for what's right, and do whatever it takes to make it right. We must continue the vision of our Founding Fathers in preserving the freedoms of the American people and the sovereign rights of the States.

A nation can never abandon its fate to an authority it cannot control.

Men must decide if their rights and freedoms are God-granted or are assigned by a federal government. We believe in the rule of laws and sustain a limited government. May God bless us to protect this sacred instrument.

Thank you,
The Bundy Family

Is it time to Impeach?

Photos by TCC Staff

About a year ago, May 11, 2013, the Town Criers, a committee of the St. Augustine Tea Party, introduced the sign pictured lower left. [ <http://www.examiner.com/article/the-sign-of-the-times> ]

Within six months of Obama's reelection, the public was already dissatisfied with Obama's unconstitutional activities and were embracing impeachment. John Boehner, Speaker of the House, and the GOP progressive leadership refused to entertain any suggestion that Obama should be removed from office. Instead, the Republican Party had chosen to attack the Tea Party and the people who embrace them. Today, the Town Criers, appeared on the streets of the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida for the 126th time. [See "A look at Town Crier's history" August 26, 2013 at <http://www.examiner.com/review/a-look-at-town-crier-s-history> Ed] The Town Criers reported today, May 4, 2014 that support, among the national audience on St. George Street, for impeachment of Obama continues to be a steady and growing phenomenon. The recent Benghazi disclosures have infuriated the general public. They all want justice, now!

Benghazi plays like Watergate

This reporter remembers the Washington Post's relentless assault on Richard Nixon and the Watergate incident. Richard Nixon's downfall was his role in the cover-up. The Washington Post, the New York Times, and the establishment media are not covering the Benghazi cover-up. Much to the surprise of those in the Tea Party movement, Fox news seems preoccupied with exposing the White House cover-up where four Americans were killed in Benghazi. It feels like Watergate. Incriminating emails from Deputy National Security

Common Core

Common Core is the latest blueprint for a techno-serfdom, workers managed for the global economy. Students and teachers are transformed indeed—into utilitarian tools of global commerce: The student is a product, schools are processing plants, and teachers are information delivery agents. The socialist "workforce management" scheme is the inverse of American principles where free persons find their own vocation and pursue it according to their talents. The "workforce" model believes that the state can anticipate the workforce needs of the economy, then train workers from "cradle to career."

Common Core is part of the subterranean template in place to indoctrinate our society into accepting "workforce security" in exchange for a global public square where American values are a distant memory... by Mary Jo Anderson

Adviser Ben Rhodes exposed the Obama White House's attempt to construct a misleading narrative about why the attack happened. They blamed it on the video. Because of the new revelations, Speaker Boehner, under pressure from conservatives, announced the formation of a 'select committee' of Congress, to investigate. Fox News, beating the drum all along, re-started a blitzkrieg attack on Obama, Hillary and Rice. There have been several special reports with numerous timelines and sound bites. Yet, no one made a more impressive call to action than Judge Jeanine Pirro. Her opening statement on May 3rd was a blistering attack on Barack Obama in which she suggests that he be impeached. <http://www.foxnews.com/on-air/justice-jeanine/index.html>

The Town Crier's experience with the national audience they encounter in St. Augustine, Florida, clearly, shows a strong desire to remove Barack Obama from office. While Democrats claim that Benghazi is not of interest to the public, the folks on St. George Street, not only prove otherwise, but also show that the Benghazi issue is not going away and will never be forgotten. "My God, four Americans died, and no one tried to help them. And, it all appears to lead to the White House," exclaimed a visitor from New York.

It is interesting to observe the Town Crier's reaction to the occasional hard-core leftist assaults. Today, a woman suggested that the Tea Party should give Obama a pass on Benghazi, because Bush had similar failures in Iraq. Going straight to the point, the Criers declared, "We dislike Bush as much as Obama." This completely unhinged her talking points position which was to encourage a Republican, Democratic, confrontational discussion. Looking to another sign, she saw, "White House is infested with Communists". An old reliable talking point for the left was interjected, "You don't know what a Communist is", she said. The prompt reply from the Crier was, "I'm looking at one". At which point the Town Crier continued with, "Look here, Folks, a Communist, right here in our midst." The woman never denied the claim, but scurried off after being exposed. "Hard-core leftists are not open for conversation. They can be identified by their talking points. It's time we stand up, challenge them and expose them. The survival of our Country is at stake," a Tea Party spokesman said.

While the Town Criers were engaging the public in the historic district, the Saint Augustine Tea Party also had a presence at the "St. Augustine Flea Market" where the Dartmouth is used for fundraising and membership recruitment.

Memorial Day, Veterans and the Town Criers

Today, the Town Criers appeared on the streets of the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida to honor our veteran's contributions to preserving liberty in the "Land of the Free". Yvonne Heikkinen, pictured above, is a frequent participant in Town Crier activities. She has a long connection with the military, as her family is a military family with extensive service in the U.S. Navy. So, today was a special day for her. Yvonne produces the costumes which members of the Town Criers wear as they perform their duties. For this special occasion, Yvonne created a new outfit for herself and produced signs encouraging the public to support and appreciate the efforts of our veterans. This is particularly appropriate with, yet, the latest scandal regarding the Veteran's Administration. Mrs. Heikkinen often passes out miniature American flags to the young people she encounters. Today she requested that, in honor of our veterans, we carry the flag that they have so honorably defended. Normally, the Town Criers carry the revolutionary Gadsden flag. According to a Town Crier, this is not out of disrespect for the flag of our Country. It is a form of protest against the politicians who wrap themselves in the flag and so dishonorably serve our Country. In honor of our veterans, today, the American flag and the Gadsden flag flew side-by-side. There were veterans on St. George Street who identified themselves by wearing their combat ribbons. The Town Criers were honored to greet them and to thank them for their service. One particularly touching scene was that of a Vietnam Vet, a Marine sergeant dressed in full uniform. A woman, upon seeing him, "teared up" as she recalled her own father, who was killed in Vietnam. "Unfortunately, many of the people saw today's holiday only in terms of a three-day weekend, "a Town Crier commented.

Memorial Day marks a special Anniversary

Memorial Day weekend marks a special anniversary for the Town Criers. On Memorial Day weekend 2012, the Town Crier Committee made the decision to reject political correctness, once and for all. On May 26, 2012, a sign, which was later called "The Big Red Sign", was introduced in the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida. The sign simply declared, not name calling here, that "Obama is a Communist". The original sign, pictured above, was tattered from extensive use and exposure to rain. This sign was carried on Memorial Day 2012, through Election Day in November. The first time it was exposed to the public, the Town Criers had some reservations as to how the public would accept such a bold but truthful statement. The person who carried a sign said, "If the public was unwilling to accept such a bold statement about the man occupying the White House, I was prepared to fold it up and place it in the nearest trashcan. However, the sign was an immediate success. The public loved it!" Back then, a Crier recalled, "Some people refused to admit that their president was a Communist and would say 'No, no. He's a socialist'. This was particularly true of Republicans. The Democrats held us in contempt for exposing the truth." On October 20, 2012, Joe Biden gave this sign a thumbs-up as his limo passed. The Town Criers were embedded with a bunch of Obama supporters who were carrying signs stating "Forward", which has long been a marching slogan for the Communists. [See <http://www.examiner.com/article/the-town-criers-elcome-joe-biden-to-st-augustine-fl>]. "Biden's thumbs-up gives you an idea of how comfortable Biden is with Communism," a Crier stated.

Photos by TCC Staff

Today, by a margin of 9 to 1, those engaging the Town Criers, accept the statement as fact. That is, that Obama is, in fact, a full blown Communist in every leftist policy he pushes. Pictured above, to the left (no pun intended) are some of the signs that have been used over the last two years. In fact, upon seeing the "Big Red Sign", many people expand on its statement. "He is not only a Communist, he's a racist, a Muslim, a lying SOB who needs to be impeached now," a man from Ohio shouted!
