Conversations in the Street

Part 3 of 3 - A Journey

Dear Ms. Lunelle,

As we made our way to Sarasota, Florida to an event that would showcase Candace Owens as the Keynote Speaker; Candace, a young black woman who has come to fame as a defender and supporter of President Trump and the Republican Party .

The hope of our group was that she would take an interest in our veteran's monuments, and speak out more loudly than she already had on this issue, as her family is from my home state of North Carolina.

Mr. Edgerton with Candace Owen in the Photograph "Rope Line"
Making a Quick Pitch for veteran's memorials

I had been led to believe that I was going to an event where I would have the ear of this young woman; who has the ear of President Trump. But instead, our group, including me, was not provided the promised access and our table was relegated to being "token spooks" who sat by the door for the Republican Party. This time was the same as at Manatee County's Republican Party's 2019 Lincoln Day Dinner.

But, had I been avail of this, I would have asked her to ask the President to pardon the young man who out of fear for the lives of so many would cause the death of a young woman in Charlottesville, Virginia; and the reason I felt the justification to do so.

I would also have asked her to task President Trump for help from his Attorney General, as the rule of law for Southern people who now fight the carnage and sacrilege upon our culture and the Cenotaphs of our fallen dead led by the fake News Media, transplants from the North who have come to our homeland skinning and grinning, and manipulating their way on our Boards, Commissions, and Councils; while carrying out the Charge laid down by Thaddeus Stephens to punish the South.

And not to forget the Southern scalawags who have gladly given in, in complicity just like Judas of Iscariot did against Jesus.

I keep telling black folks that this Republican Party is not the same Radical Republican Party that sold them out, and used them against the Southern white man during the days of reconstruction. And it was even more so as that period began to wane. And, that it is not the same Radical Republican Party that their ancestors told them to never join. Yet, I am offended that Southern politicians would celebrate anything in the name of Lincoln, as were you as you boldly wore a special photograph around your neck in silent protest.

I am offended that the new Governor of Florida would tout Florida as a Veteran-friendly...no, the foremost Veteran friendly State in the Union. That is a lie!

He just like Kathleen King, Chair of the Republican Party of Manatee County, who would voice the same lie to those gathered in Sarasota should come clean; and tell the people how in this so-called Veteran friendly State; the third State to secede from the Union, would rather see all Veteran Cenotaphs vandalized, or destroyed, like what happened to the Confederate Cenotaph in Manatee County. Just like the Tuskegee Veterans monument; rather than protect the Cenotaph of the Confederate military, who too is an American Veteran so deemed by the United States Congress, and due any amenities of any other American Veteran.

And, let us not forget the crucifixion of the Honorable State Representative Mike Hill because, as a black man, he would sponsor a Bill that would protect these Veterans; not to even mention the 'heartbeat Bill' that would protect the life of a new born baby.

I, for one, will not succumb to playing games with this Legislative Body to hide the desire to protect the Cenotaphs and honorable legacies of men like the Honorable General Kirby Smith, who's Cenotaph should never have been slated for removal from Statuary Hall in the Nation's Capitol. And, any Southern black who would sanction this move is no better than the reconstruction blacks that severed the ties of love between Southern black folks and Southern white folks during the period of so called reconstruction.

No son or daughter of the future must doubt the nobility of purpose of the purity of the motives of the gallant men, descendants of the Cavalier who went fearlessly to their death in defense of their conception of justice and right. Their heroic courage and lofty self- sacrifice commanded the admiration of the world.

The fame of this Southern heroism is depicted in the Cenotaphs built by the Southern women to his charge. May God bless him, and may he someday rest in peace. God bless you!

Your brother,
HK

Tea Party Celebrates with Energized Patriots

On July 4, 2019 the St. Augustine Tea Party's Dartmouth made its sixth annual Independence Day appearance at the Castillo de San Marcos in the historic district of St. Augustine, Florida. Its presence became a focal point for those celebrating America's independent from a tyrannical King.

No one approaching the “Fort” or traveling along the Bayfront could escape the view pictured above. The Dartmouth was observed by tens of thousands of people throughout the day and evening festivities. While Americans were celebrating Independence Day in Washington with President Donald Trump, enthusiastic patriots and Trump supporters, from North East Florida, who could not make the trip to Washington, were celebrating in America’s Oldest City.

Trump’s Presidency Galvanizing Patriots

“Contrary to the ‘Pravda Style’ narrative of the News services of the Left, the Trump Presidency has had an electrifying effect on the American people,” St. Augustine Tea Party Chairman, Lance Thate said.

Continuing Thate explained:

“When our Intel revealed that the Communists were taking to the streets again on Independence Day our brothers and sisters in the 3% Militia, Article 6 Militia and the Proud Boys rose to the occasion to support to the Tea Party’s effort in celebrating Liberty. The result of their involvement produced a second tent on the ground next to the Dartmouth, making this the biggest show of strength over the past 6 years. I can also report that our donation jar was not ignored by the public. This year’s donations were the largest ever received at this event. It seems that only the establishment element of the existing political parties and the media consider the Tea Party a thing of the past. The people certainly do not.”

Photos by TCCR Staff

A year ago there was a sense of foreboding; people were fearful. The future was fraught with danger. This Fourth of July the people appear energized by a electrical charge radiating from the White House. Great danger lies ahead; but now there is a sense of leadership. The Communist’s reaction to this leadership appears to be self-inflicted self-destruction. People are excited about 2020 and they are in no mood to compromise with the Communists. The evidence of the excitement ripples across the photographs that accompany this article.

The Anticipated Attack Nothing More Than Bluff

On the day before Independence Day celebration the local version of Pravda, officially called the St. Augustine Record Newspaper, like clockwork again, provided a front-page article to help promote the Ron Rawls' "March of Disruption". "The Record" attributed a quote from Ron Rawls in their article:

"I can have 500 people with no passion or 50 people with passion, and those 50 people will cause the biggest disruption because they're taking their heart into [it], he said. We're not going to stop."

submissio. Of course even if they had worked their signs nothing would have happened because no one was paying any attention to them. So the stated goal of disruption didn't happen either. When they got to the Tea Party's Dartmouth and the assembled 3% and other militia units, Rawls and his and his degenerates initiated a "Cut and Run like a Bat Out Of Hell" maneuver. No doubt they remembered their experience from last year when they ventured onto Federal jurisdiction without their ever present St. Augustine Police Department protection. Last year their attempted disruption of the Tea Party resulted in a massive "USA, USA, USA" chant

Let's analyze Rawls' comment. First he knew that he would never have five hundred people and Rawls was covering his butt. Well, Rawls didn't have 50 people with passion either. He had about half that number. And, they had zero passion. People with passion work their signs. These dead beats from Jax were carrying their signs so low that the public couldn't even see them. Some were carried upside down. No individual passion, only the collective megaphone "whipping the slaves" into that the public picked up. At the time there were 15,000 people in the vicinity; just how many of them picked up the chant is unknown. But what is known is that Mr. Rawls turned tail and ran. This year he did not test the Tea Party and Militia's resolve he just ran. This occurred even though the St. Augustine Police Department was present and providing Rawls' group security.

What Mr. Rawls did not know is all of the excitement and passion was taking place at the rear of his column. While Rawls' display of the "Closed Fist Communist Salute" at the front of the column was having no impression on the public at all, one lone individual with passion and the truth was stealing the show with positive acceptance in the rear of the column. Rawls' collectivism got nothing but rejection while the individual prevailed.

Finally, Rawls says he is not going to stop. The Tea Party truly hopes that he keeps his word. There is little the Tea Party could do that would bring a quicker defeat to his agenda. Rawls is a master of his own defeat.

"Victory will reside with American Patriots adhering to the truth; the Progressive's Communist deception is disintegrating before our very eyes," according to the Tea Party's Chairman.

Bill and Jeffrey and Thelma and Louise

by John Knapp

Epstein Airways has crashed, and there will soon be blood in the water everywhere.

Pilots were there. Manifests were filled out, documenting all the witnesses - I mean passengers - who were on the planes, in case of a fatal plane crash. Did I mention Epstein Airways has crashed? I guess I did. Underage girls were on board, who are now old and aware enough to realize they were taken advantage of. The legal winds are just howling 'Go get 'em!' from behind the claimants.

Jeffery Epstein, former owner of now-defunct Epstein Airways and noted Democrat Party chum, is a soon-to-be ex-billionaire. There are very many monstrous damage suits to come, plus another chance at a jail-cell-for-life for Jeffrey, provided he lives through the coming holocaust, which he created.

Schools of attorney-sharks are out there, salivating over a YUGE kill. In short order, several some ones are going to turn on all the rest of the accomplices and spill their guts to keep from going to jail. Deals will be made. Where is Robert Mueller when the Democrats REALLY needs him?

Is it possible some would-have-been witnesses have already been disposed of, a la the Clinton's reputed go-to M.O.? This has all the necessary ingredients for sensational news stories well past Donald Trump's re-election! Even the Democrat-complicit MSM channels will have to cover it. They'll just hafta.

There's wealth involved here, like King Midas could only dream about. There's sex with underage girls involved here, like only dirty old miscreants and perverts dream about. There might be a murder or three in there. Likely some extremely dirty political connections, too. This lurid tale's got it all, and the long knives are comin' out.

There is nothing more publicly-riveting than a sordid tale ending in a well-deserved comeuppance. It's the same old story, where former 'heroes' weren't, but had clay feet after all. Of course, we've known all along something rotten this way came from the State of Arkansas. Yeah, nothing more exciting than to see the worm finally get himself turned.....upon.

Everyone will be wondering who else is involved and how deep does this go? Someone out there is already working on the sure-to-be blockbuster movie that will come. There are too many witnesses/accomplices scattered all over the place, to rub them all out, to keep THESE particular beans in the can.

Epstein and Clinton don't have enough money between them to buy off all the witnesses/accomplices. With Clinton's influence now at low ebb, this might become the Democrat Party's best opportunity to throw him - and his wretched wife - under the Party bus - where they've always belonged - forevermore.

Plus, now any democrat politician who ever got money from Epstein will be on the public griddle. How the ruling elite have had this blow coming! And, hopefully, more blows are in the wind.

Lord, please don't let me die before I see how deep in The Swamp this goes. Whereas a natural swamp emits gas bubbles, the D.C. Swamp is now emitting GASP bubbles.

My grandma had a saying, that 'A dog never goes so far that his tale doesn't follow him.' If Clinton lived a thousand years in jail, it wouldn't be long enough. But then, there is Hell, isn't there. He and his wretched spouse are EVIL INCARNATE.

This tragedy is the wage of ignoring public and personal corruption, which will then be free to continue toward its natural inclinations. This is what the Democrat Party gets for always giving passes to wholly corrupt leaders.

And, it's what the rest of us get for falling short, for our acquiescence in tepidly tolerating it.

St. Augustine History / An Open Response

Dear Ms. Lunelle,

I read the article pulled out of Harpers archive section of events that took place in the Nation's oldest City in 1963 as Ron Rawls, a modern day poverty Pimp, seeks to take the City and its people back to the past with his relentless attacks upon the Confederate Cenotaphs there.

Had Dr. King, or the Honorable Andrew Young fully understood history they would have found the table of brotherhood that the Honorable Dr. Alexander Darnes, Christopher Columbus Quarls, Anthony Welters and a host of other black Confederate soldiers, and their families sat at with their white brothers.

Had King and Young stepped back in history and heeded the warnings of the Pole Bearers and Knights Monumental Associations, who warned their black brothers and sisters of those who had come into the South to divide and separate them from their Southern white family; to never let it happen again; a different tale would have been told about St. Augustine.

Had Young and King don the uniform that Darnes and Quarls had, with the Southern Cross in hand as they entered St. Augustine while reaching back for the honor that Southern blacks like Napoleon Nelson, Chaplain in Chief of the Honorable General Nathan Bedford Forest, who with his grandson Nelson Windbush, too, don the uniform of the Southern soldier as they attended the integrated re-unions of the Confederate soldier represented by the Cenotaph in the City Park.

Had Young and King continued on some 50 yards, they would have come upon the childhood home of the Honorable Confederate General Kirby Smith, and his Aid de Camp, black Confederate soldier Alexander Darnes; childhood friends. Darnes would be educated off the funds given to him by the Smith family, and later would become the second black Doctor in the City of Jacksonville, where he would be responsible for stopping a Yellow Fever, and Smallpox epidemic that would have killed possibly thousands.

Had they asked, they would have learned about the day that the Ku Klux Klan don in their full regalia, sat in the Church at the internment of Christopher Columbus Quarls beside his family paying tribute to Quarls life beside a man that he not only called master, but also family and friend.

But, it was not to be. Here was King who now climbed into bed with a man who had come South with the General Order of Lincoln to take the theater of war to the innocent, defenseless old men, women and children; black and white, freed or indentured, raping, plundering, and murdering; with no regard that these were patriotic, Christian people who regarded many of his actions to be problematic to everything they believed in.

To them King had climbed into bed with the Communist Party, and even been accused by his right hand man, Rev. Ralph Abernathy with having extramarital relations with other women; something they could not tolerate from a man of the cloth; and not worthy to lead his people.

To them, King had preached almost verbatim on a radio program from the Battle Hymn of the Republic; a Yankee War cry used by the same Union forces who entered the Southern cities that they sacked, and before battle with Confederate forces. Offences are forgivable to some, but not by many.

I have entered this City called St. Augustine don in the uniform of the Southern soldier with the Christian Cross, his Colors in hand; called brother by those supposed to hate me; to include the Klan. And, yet I 'm only called "Nigger" by those who walk with Rawls and his band of Black Lives Matters, Take Em Down thugs, Antifa and the others who George Soros provides for his campaign of anarchy. God bless you!

From Tea Party to Trump

It is time that President Trump acknowledges the true legacy of the movement he leads. His movement is not of the Silent Majority. There is nothing silent about the Trump Rallies or the Tea Party. The Silent Majority concept comes from Roger Stone's the early influence on candidate Trump. Roger Stone, establishment GOP dirty trickster extraordinaire coupled the Silent Majority to the movement that the Tea Party started. This comes from Stone's experience in the Nixon administration and that perspective. While Nixon portrayed himself as an anti-Communist, his administration was the very essence of a GOP establishment regime. The very soul of the Council on Foreign Relations was imbedded in the Nixon administration. Nixon claimed his support came from a Silent Majority.

FB Image

It should be remembered that early on Trump rallies barred any signage that reflected the Tea Party. In spite of the fact that the rally's form and organizers were Tea Party people. This was true at Trump's first rally in Florida; which occurred at "The Landing" in Jacksonville Florida on October 24, 2019. The St. Augustine Tea Party was barred entry to the rally because they carried Gadsden flags and unapproved signage. This policy was to appease the Republican leadership who had already dismissed the Tea Party as holding values that are contrary to the GOP's globalist perspective.

Now Donald Trump stands alone in Washington with the establishment of both political parties in opposition to his efforts to keep his campaign promises. When Donald Trump praises Republican politicians as great people many in his base find it objectionable. They are very politicians that did everything in their power to destroy the Tea Party movement.
